

Wellbeing and Resilience for Law School Managers 29th May 2018

This workshop is aimed at all those holding management and leadership roles within law schools. The focus is on wellbeing challenges in relation to performing leadership roles, including the following themes: the difficulty of constructing staff and student wellbeing as a collective institutional project rather than as being in competition; staff development and performance; the culture of targets and metrics; the challenge of creative engagement and resistance; the danger of co-optation while striving to achieve improved performance. The format of the day will be highly interactive, with breakout and feedback sessions.

Programme

9:30	Registration, coffee and pastries
10:30	Welcome
10:40	Keynote Speaker: Professor Richard Collier, Newcastle University 'Surely everyone else is coping, what is wrong with me?' Wellbeing in University Law Schools - A Missing Piece of the Legal Profession's 'Wellness' Turn?
11:40	Facilitated Break Out Groups
12:30	Lunch
13:15	Panel Discussion: Dr Christine Rajah , Consultant Occupational Physician The Perspective of an Occupational Health Physician Ms Tina Buckle , Tina Buckle Consulting The Perspective of an Executive Coach Professor Carl Stychin , Institute of Advanced Legal Studies The Perspective of an Academic Manager
14:30	Questions/Discussion
15:00	Coffee
15:20	Facilitated Break Out Groups
16:00	Concluding Session: Report Back from Group Discussions
16:30	Reception